THE PRESIDENT’S CORNER

Pete Skelly

For those of you who were not able to come to last month’s luncheon you missed an excellent presentation by Tom Durkin. Tom provided some great insight into central geothermal plant design. The final two luncheons are covering topics that should be very beneficial so please plan on attending. We start off on March 8th with a discussion on field verification of fan performance followed up by a tech session on fan selection basics. Our last luncheon of the year has another distinguished lecturer in town to provide information on Building Performance Analysis April 12th. To wrap up the year we will be having the golf outing May 20th. Information on the outing is included in the newsletter.

I am pleased to announce the accomplishments of University of Cincinnati student Tao Yu. Tao, an undergraduate mechanical engineering student, was selected by the ASHRAE Scholarship Trustees at the Society’s 2011 Winter Conference to receive a one-year $3,000 General Scholarship for the 2011-2012 academic year. Congratulations Tao!

I would also like to wish the University of Cincinnati luck in the ASHRAE student design project. They have two teams entering the competition and have really put a great deal of time and effort into the contest. It is nice to see the future of the industry becoming involved in ASHRAE. GO Bearcats!

Best Regards,

Peter Skelly

Kentucky Announces New 2011 IECC 2009/ASHRAE 90.1-2007 Code Training Workshops

The State of Kentucky is upgrading the Kentucky Commercial Building Code (KBC) by adopting the latest commercial building energy standards - IECC 2009/ASHRAE 90.1-2007.

To support this change, the University of Kentucky has teamed with AD Hall and Associates to develop ten new energy code related workshops. These workshops are designed to help architects, engineers, designers and code officials understand the new design and submission requirements, and the related site inspections. These ten workshops will be offered at five regional locations in Kentucky during April and May 2011. The tuition free workshops earn PDH attendance credits. Class size is limited, so apply soon. See www.ad-hall.net for more information.
